Summer 2013 Archaeology Field School:
A Colorado Rocky Mountain High!

Anth 3930 (5 credits) & Anth 4763 (3 credits). ~ $2,100 in-state tuition/OU fees + $300 field fee for 30 days food, lodging, & transportation within the project area. Non-OU, out-of-state, and graduate students contact instructor for details on credits, cost, course designations, and registration procedure.

- Prerequisite: Instructor permission (one or more prior archaeology courses recommended)
- Application form: Available by e-mail from Dr. Pitblado: bonnie.pitblado@ou.edu.
- Apply early: Enrollment is limited; qualified applicants accepted first-come, first-served. Your spot is reserved only after you have paid a $300 deposit (refer to application form for details).

Description: The 2013 University of Oklahoma Field School will introduce you to all key elements of archaeological field work in one of the prettiest settings in the western United States. You will:

- Learn to read and use topographic maps, compass, and global positioning system (GPS)
- Learn to identify artifacts, features and sites from the Paleoindian through historic eras
- Survey for new sites and learn to record and map them on state site forms
- Conduct a small-scale excavation of an 8,000 – 10,000 year-old Paleoindian site
- Learn all aspects of post-field laboratory processing, artifact analysis and write-up

Logistics:
- Work schedule: Three 10-day field & two 10-day lab sessions with 4-day breaks between sessions; optional fieldwork opportunities in August for those wanting experience and a stipend
- Physical requirements: Be sufficiently fit to hike several miles at a minimum of 8,000’ elevation
- Accommodations: Rustic camping (access to showers and toilet facilities provided)
- Camp location: Lake City area, Southwest Colorado (http://www.lakecity.com/index.php)
- We supply: Arch. equipment, project-area transportation, food, camping, communal camp gear
- You supply: Personal camping gear (tent, sleeping bag, etc.) & a Silva “Ranger” style compass

For information/application form: Dr. Bonnie Pitblado, Robert E. & Virginia Bell Endowed Professor of Anthropology, 455 W Lindsey, Room 521, Norman, OK 73019. 405-325-2490; bonnie.pitblado@ou.edu.